JAS. AYLSWORTH,

War Summary of The Latest Events

With irresistible valor the troops of General Foch continue to smash their way through the lines of the Germans toward Peronne. Wednesday's despatches told of the progress of the battle begun between Comblès and the north bank of the Somme on Tuesday.
After breaking the German front and penetrating to the Papaume-Peronne road during the struggle of Tuesday afternoon the French launched a night attack at 8 o'clock which resulted in the capture of the village of Boucha-
vesnes, located along the highway.
The victorious Frenchmen afterwards pushed on and took by assault the farm and wood of L'Abbe, six hundred yards to the southeast of Boucha-vesnes.

There the advance was stayed by the Germans, who in the early hours of Wednesday morning launched furious counter-attacks. They recaptured the Abbe Farm and Hill 76, near the Somme, to the east of Clercy, but later in the day the French once more swept the Germans back at both points. They now hold firmly all the gains made in their splendid advance
south of Bouchavesnes. On their left flank south of Comblès the French on Wednesday extended their positions,
and took by assault south of Le Priez Farm the whole system of trenches which had been powerfully organized by the enemy. This farther advance east and south of Comblès makes the German position in that town entirely hopeless. The total number of unwounded prisoners captured during Tuesday and Wednesday, so far as counted, is 2,300. In the sector of Bouchavesnes alone the Germans left behind them ten guns, including some of heavy calibre, and 40 machine guns.

The British report states that the situation on that part of the front held by Sir Douglas Haig's army is unchanged. The Germans attacked on Tuesday night on the northern front near the Mouquet Farm, but their assault was stopped by artillery fire,
and the enemy retired to his trenches
after suffering considerable loss. The British engineers and artillerymen are undoubtedly hard at work preparing for the battering of Comblès from the vicinity of Ginchy and for the launching of an assault in combination with the French. Comblès is strongly held by the enemy, who has only a narrow
corridor left easterly from the town
by which to retreat in the event of a combined assault. If the guns of the Allies can make that passageway sufficiently dangerous a large part of the

the French. The French are strongly corridor by the enemy, who has only a narrow
corridor left easterly from the town
by which to retreat in the event of a
combined assault. If the guns of the Allies can make that passageway sufficiently dangerous a large part of the garrison of Combes may be forced to surrender when the town is taken. It will be several days yet before the British are able to install heavy guns
on the high land northwest of Combes for the attack on the last German position on the easterly end of the ridge, which the enemy has so tenaciously held since the struggle began on July 1st.

The alignment of the allied troops
on the Saloniki front preparatory to the general advance continues. The Italian contingent occupies a part of the front between the French in the Vardar Valley and the British along the Struma. Their first encounters with the Bulgars took place on Monday and Tuesday, and resulted in the driving in of the Bulgar patrols near Lake Butkovo. The French guns are active in the Vardar Valley, especially along the west side, where the hills
are of considerable height, and numerous villages nestling among them afford shelter to the Bulgars. It is believed that on the Vardar sector of the front, against which the enemy
expect the principal attack of the Allies to be directed, there are 130,- 000 Bulgars and 12,000 Germans.
They can hope for no reinforcements.
Every man the Bulgar War Office can spare from the Saloniki front is now in the Bobrudja trying to stay the Russian advance.

Greek politics are still in a state
of confusion, and zaimis, it is believed, will return to power as the head of a National Ministry on the understanding that he will line up with the Allies. The Bulgars are clearly of the opinion that Greece can no longer
be depended on to remain neutral.
They are reported to have seized the entire city of Kavala. A Sofia despatch says that Bulgarian hydro-
planes have successfully attacked warships of the Allies in the harbor. If the Bulgars have made themselves
masters of the city of Kavala as well as of its forts there is no doubt at all that Greece will fight to recover the city. The serious feature of the situation is that by the capture of Seres, Fort Rupel, Drama and other points in Greek Macedonia the Bulgars secured a large part of the equipment of the Greek army, and especially of its field artillery. The Allies will not be keen to equip the Greeks
until they show their good faith more plainly than they have done in the past.

On the Roumanian fronts and in the Carpathians there has been no change of importance. Despatches from Berlin indicate that Germany has taken over the defence of Transylvania in the general interest of the Central Empires, the Austrians being unable to hold back unaided the advancing Roumanians. The first engagement between the Germans and the Roumanians took place in the vicinity of Hermannstadt. It is probable that the Germans will seek to re-open the Danube by driving the Roumanians out of Orsovo. Its occupation has given them gun positions from which they command the canal by which vessels avoid the rapids of the Iron Gates. The Danube is an international waterway, and it is pointed out by the Roumanians that the closing of its waters to the Germans and Bulgars cuts off the chief means for the

NANANEE PROSPERITY

Editor: I am writing you to occupy some of your space in order to inform the community of a few facts of interest to the community.

LIAM DAVIES & CO.

My company writes me under date of September 11th, in which they say, "We have definitely rented the plant at Nananee Canning Co., until the 1st of October and we are hoping to have operations within the next few weeks. We shall be employing from one hundred and fifty to one hundred and eighty people, of this, about half will be women. We pay fair wages and it is our intention to make them as contented as possible in every way. That this is a fact is proved by the fact that in our factory proper, we have people been with us from ten to fifteen years."

The location of this plant, will be exclusively for the manufacture of cans and beans, bought by the Government for the boys at the front. We have found in our country at Toronto, that many people work on munitions and are contented, who would otherwise be idle in the factory. We will hope the condition would obtain in Nananee."

The industry ought to add perceptibly to the prosperity and boom that is now enjoying at present and if there is a scarcity of employment in Nananee or near-by towns, I can assure you that we are ready and willing to take on from the present prospects, as much work for anybody as they wish to do this winter.

The factory will require as much as a number of people to work in the Nananee Iron Works, who are manufacturing shells for the Government, I believe can find as much work as they want. In fact, a number of hands. In fact, a man or laboring man, if he can at present obtain enough good wages in Nananee, will be welcomed by the people to move into the town in the wave of success.

ARMOURIES.

Our boys have been given to put on a thorough state of readiness for troops on the first day of the war and it is expected that the Armory will be filled with boys in Khaki for the war. The property is now being improved by the Granoliths and fencing that are being erected about it.

TRIC RAILWAY.

One of the mayors of the district is interested, was held on the evening last at Deseronto to the scheme of an electric line for the management of the district. The Commission to be conducted from Picton through to Nananee. This will be a boon to all people west of Deseronto and anxious of coming to Nananee.

LENNOX COUNTY FAIR

With excellent weather a large crowd came to Nananee on Wednesday for the fair, and though some of the classes were not filled as well as usual there was plenty to amuse the people for a few hours. The exhibit of root crops was especially short as the season has been unfavorable. The ladies' work, both useful and fancy, was fully up to other years.

Some very fine merchant's displays were made, and a new feature was the number of automobiles shown on the grounds.

The decorated cars for special prizes offered by the various dealers brought out a number of beautifully decorated cars, which formed a procession at the market square and followed the band to the grounds. The ladies of Grace Methodist church won the prizes offered by both the Ford and Overland dealers. Their cars were beautifully decorated.

WAR TO END THIS WINTER.

So Says General Creagh in Discussion of Situation.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—General Sir
O'Moore Creagh, formerly Commander-in-Chief in India, writing in The Weekly Dispatch on "Why the war
will end this winter," says:

"Recent events on all theatres of war have been uniformly successful
for the Allies. The Austro-German armies have everywhere received severe blows, while their allies are in a precarious state. The Central Alliance has been defeated, not crushed. The only acceptable finish can be their complete crushing, so as to prevent further mischief."

"It is therefore necessary to make the German nation realize the hopeless situation before complete surrender will be brought about. Already the morale of the nation is affected. The Germans no longer talk of annexing their neighbors' property. Their general staff bulletins are filled with bigger lies than ever.
These stimulants are required to keep up the people's spirits."

"I am of the opinion that the war will not last over winter. Napoleon said: 'In war moral power is to the physical power as three to one.' We have the advantage of both moral and physical power."

cruited voluntarily and will be organized into five battalions of 2,000
men each, under military discipline,

FIGHTING NEAR GINCHY

British Troops Have Been in Hand-to-Hand Conflict.

Enemy Attempts a Bombardment, but His Guns Are Quickly Silenced—British Have Consolidated Positions Captured on Saturday and Sunday—Allied Forces Are Shelling Combles From Three Sides.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The British engaged in fierce hand-to-hand fighting about Ginchy on the northern bank of the Somme, when the Germans counter-attacked them, according to the despatches from Sir Douglas Haig last night. Four officers and 101 men were taken prisoner by the British in repulsing these attacks. The total number of prisoners taken since the last report was made exceeds 200.

North of the bluff the British trenches were threatened with a bombardment by German trench mortars, but the British artillery and trench mortars were trained on the enemy and speedily silenced his guns.

Excepting for the continuous bombardment of heavy guns, yesterday passed without incident south of the Ancre, the Germans dropping their counter-attacks, and the British troops completed the consolidation of the positions which they captured Saturday and Sunday.

Combles is now under fire from three sides, by the British from the north-west and west, and by the French from the south-west. Its fall is now believed to be a matter of a few days.

Winding up a week of incessant hammering of the German lines in the initial phases of which, last Sunday, part of Ginchy and the whole of Guillemont were taken by storm, the British Saturday attacked on a front of 6,000 yards, between High Wood and Leuze Wood. As a result, they completed the capture of Ginchy and took all of the ground between the village and Leuze Wood. Furthermore, they pushed their lines forward 300 yards on a front of 500 yards east of High Wood.

Simultaneously successfully crushing in the northern tip of the salient formed by the Somme drive, the British gained an additional 600 yards to the north-east of Pozieres. The headquarters statement issued Sunday night tells of heavy casualties suffered by the Germans, particularly while massing for a counter-attack during the British action near Pozieres, the Teutons being caught by the British artillery fire.

The French forces on the Somme contented themselves with minor actions Sunday. They captured some German trenches east of Belloy-en-Santerre, south-west of Barleux, taking 30 prisoners, and earlier in the day took a small wood east of this village, and made further progress east of Denicourt. Including Sunday's captures, the French have taken more than 8,000 prisoners since last Sunday.

At every vital point of the Somme battle line the Germans Sunday launched counter-attacks of frantic bitterness. Everywhere their attempts to regain the ground lost since the resumption of the Allies' big push a week ago Sunday broke down with severe losses, according to

TEUTONS DRIVEN OUT

Russo-Roumanian Army Has Put an End to Invasion.

Recapture of Dobrich Occurs at End of Twenty-four-hour Battle—Roumanians Have Also Seized Six Towns in Transylvania—Another Army Has Invaded Serbia as Far as Negotin.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Russo-Roumanian forces have retaken from the Bulgar-Teuto invaders the city and fortress of Dobrich (Bazardjik), 50 miles south-east of Bucharest, after a 24 hours' battle, beginning immediately after its fall Saturday. Dobrich, a small town near Dobrich, also was retaken. This first important success scored by the Roumanians and their Muscovite ally since Roumania's entrance into the war, was announced by the Bucharest War Office Sunday night as follows: "Russian and Roumanian troops drove the Bulgarians from Bazardjik (Dobrich) and Dobasci."

It is certain that the Germans and Bulgars have had to give up the Black Sea ports of Kavarna and Kali Akra, which are north of Basardjik. These points are on the Teutonic right flank. News that they have been forced out of Affatar, little more than ten miles south of the Roumanian fortress of Silistria, is expected at any time.

This driving back of the Teutonic right wing and centre is almost certain to be followed by a withdrawal of the left wing, which rests a little north of captured Tutraikan. Basardjik, the recaptured city, is south of a line drawn straight east from Tutraikan, and if the Teutons in Tutraikan do not withdraw they will be caught with the Russians and Roumanians in front of them and the Danube and Roumania behind.

The result will be that the Russo-Roumanian plan of an invasion of Bulgaria from the Dobrudja will be carried out, and with greater chance of success than if the Teutons never had invaded Roumania. Together with the reported Roumanian advance into Serbia, this would cut off the Bulgarian and Teuton forces in the Balkans and pin them between General Sarraill's army at Salonica and the Russo-Roumanian armies to the north.

In the northern Transylvanian Alps the Russo-Roumanian forces captured six towns, including Toplitza, 14 miles north of Orzova, the others being San Milai, Deline, Ciurgiuergen and Semniglan. They repulsed a counter-attack south of Mehadia, 15 miles north of Orzova.

The Roumanian seaport of Constantza was again bombarded by German and Bulgarian aeroplanes, according to the Roumanian War Office statement.

A Russo-Roumanian army has begun an invasion of Serbia. Sweeping southwards from Orzova, taking the identical course the Teutons took in their whirlwind campaign through the little kingdom, the new invaders have penetrated as far as Negotin, seven miles inside of the Serbian border, occupying the town, according to an Athens despatch to The Daily News.

Thus the first blow in the long-heralded Allied campaign for the isolation of the Central Empires from Bulgaria and Turkey by cut-big push a week ago Sunday broke down with severe losses, according to the French and British official reports. They were unable to wrest from the Entente troops an inch of the lost terrain.

Only at one point between Belloy-en-Santerre and Barleux, did the Germans make as much as a temporary gain. They were immediately driven out of the trench in which they had won a foothold, by a vigorous French counter-attack. The short-lived success was scored, according to the French communique, with the aid of jets of liquid fire.

The British have taken 350 prisoners during the last 24 hours. They repulsed a violent counter-attack north-east of Pozieres and another north of Ginchy. In reviewing the week's advance, the afternoon statement issued at headquarters says the British since last Sunday have pushed their front forward 6,000 yards to a depth varying between 300 and 3,000 yards. The important points netted by the seven days' advance are the Falfemont farm, Leuze Wood, and the villages of Guillemont and Ginchy.

Philip Gibbs, telegraphing to The London Daily Telegraph, states that of the German garrison of 2,000 at Guillemont hardly one escaped. All were dead, wounded, or prisoners. Two battalions were wiped out.

One British sergeant, hit in the hip by a shell, captured four without help, and ordered them to carry him on a stretcher to the dressing station. He arrived smoking a cigarette, with his prisoners as stretcher-bearers.

GREECE MAKING BARGAIN?

Important Conference Under Way With Entente Allies.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Great importance is attached in despatches of Saturday to Reuter and the Exchange Telegraph Company to the conference at Athens between the Entente, Ministers and Premier Zaimis.

The Greek Premier seemingly made no definite statement regarding the Greek Government's intentions, but sounded the diplomatic representatives regarding the feelings of their Governments in the event of Greece's departure from neutrality. The Ministers replied that they welcomed proposals from the Greek Government, which they would submit to their own Governments.

Premier Zaimis had a lengthy interview with King Constantine on Saturday, and it is supposed that the sittings have been adjourned pending telegraphic advices from the Entente capitals.

A large detachment of Greek marines, the despatches say, has been brought to Athens to help the police maintain order.

isolation of the Central Empires from Bulgaria and Turkey by cutting the Berlin-Constantinople-Bagdad railway has been struck. Indeed, the Athens despatch adds that the Russo-Roumanian troops are advancing toward the Orient railway. To reach it they have to cover 60 more miles.

Through this new Serbian invasion the Teutonic and Bulgarian armies in Macedonia are placed between two formidable thrusts, a French-British-Serbian thrust from Salonica and an attack from the Russo-Roumanian forces. An added menace lies in the possible thwarting of the Bulgarian campaign in Roumania, which would result in a simultaneous Russian drive for Constantinople and a second Russo-Roumanian invasion of Serbia from the east.

Cossacks on Bulgarian Frontier.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Petrograd says:

"Russian cavalry has occupied several points on the Bulgar-Roumanian frontier."

It is reported from Sofia that two Russian monitors and one cruiser have bombarded twelve Kavala forts along a front of 16 kilometres.

These are the Greek forts seized by the German and Bulgarian forces a fortnight ago.

Major Morant, the Berlin Tageblatt's military critic, estimates the Russian Doozudja army at between 300,000 and 400,000.

Another South African Revolt.

CAPE TOWN, Sept. 12.—Details of an attempt to foment another rebellion against the British in South Africa were disclosed at the trial Friday at Bloemfontein of two Nationalists, Van der Merwe and Schenken. The men are alleged to have approached a number of prominent Boers, to whom they told that large stores of rifles were available, and that certain Boer generals were willing to lead a revolt.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Flight Commander Clarke was instantly killed Sunday while aeroplaning over the eastern counties. His aeroplane collided with another machine in mid-air, and he was dashed to earth.

A Cotton Legend.

Cotton was the theme of one of the most fabulous nature stories on its first introduction into Europe. Travelers related that in Tartary there grew a shrub that when its ripe fruit was cut open within was "a little Beast in fiesche, in bone and blade as though it were a little Lamb with outer wolle." The flesh of this "vegetable lamb" was eaten, ran the story, and the wool made into cloth. The basis of the legend is the way in which the cotton pod ripens and bursts, showing the white fluffy raw cotton, which closely resembles wool. Raw cotton is still called "cotton wool."

Dikes and Ditches.

The word "dike" used in connection with flood damage along the Zuyder Zee is etymologically akin to "ditch," the meaning of which is familiar, and for which it is commonly an interchangeable term. But in the sense now employed it of course means an embankment. Holland is the classic land of such dikes, which date from Roman occupation before the Christian era. In the fen neighborhood both ditches and embankments are found. Miles of the latter near the outlet of the Cambridgeshire Ouse protect many acres of land reclaimed from the sea.—London Mail.

THE GOVERNMENT'S REGISTRATION SCHEME

Ottawa, September 7th—The Government's registration scheme for recruiting seems to be undergoing a process of gradual oblivion. It was received coldly by the employers of labor, by the trades and labor unions, and most of the other persons concerned, so we hear no more about it. It was a belated attempt at the best, the country already having been drained of a multitude of skilled workmen, who could have done more for the Empire by staying at home, whilst large numbers of healthy idlers did not respond to the call.

So far as public opinion has expressed itself in the newspapers of both political parties the registration scheme looks like a hoar frost. Only two classes voice entire approval—those who might expect to get jobs as registrars and census takers and those who would like a chance to insult Quebec, where recruiting has been carried on under the active discouragement of Major General Sir Sam Hughes' scurvy treatment of that gallant soldier, General Lessard, and the seditious teachings of the Borden Government's allies, Bourassa and Lavergne.

The long end of the registration scheme is avowedly a general badge and button distribution for those who professed that they wanted to go to the front, but for some reason or other were unable to do so. A comprehensive answer, as it were to the plaguey fellow who asks: "Why aren't you at the front?" Quizzed thus, any beneficiary of Sir Sam's badge and button plan can flash his evidence and avoid further argument.

The badge and button plan is a modification of the Chinese system, which indicates distinctions of rank and merit by jackets, caps, peacock feathers and the like. Jackets, of course, we cannot adopt, because the khaki covers everything and feathers are only monopolized by the Jigadiers and such, but badges are free for all and will be used extensively. The next session of parliament may be expected to set aside an appropriation of a million dollars for badges. A very neat thing in the way of a gun metal badge, with a suitable ribbon, can be made for a quarter of a dollar, so that for one million dollars four million people can be provided with badges, and thus present a dauntless front to the enemy. For another half million dollars the same number of citizens can be supplied with buttons, which can be worn on the coat lapel when it is not convenient or modest to wear a badge. The buttons, I take it, will be so that he who runs may balked heroism of the button, but the badges will be for ceremonial occasions, banquets, picnics, clam the like.

Of course the badges will color and degree, because democratic country and th tions are naturally insis The badges will include a patriotic endeavor. Maxwell motor cars have demountable rims and the same size tires on both front and rear wheels.

REMEMBER these important features, because they are not to be found on some of the lighter cars. Maxwell cars have 3½ in. tires all around. This is a generous size. The tires are not overtaxed. They last longer and make riding easier.

Tires of one size mean that you have to carry only one size casing and one size tube.

Demountable rims, of course, are recognized as the best. They are on all good cars. Don't buy any car without demountable rims. If you do, you'll regret it.

In connection with the improvement of by-ways, the policy of the Liberal representatives in the Ontario Legisla- ture has been drafted to meet the de- mands of the farmer; and radical measures to ameliorate conditions may be expected when the Conserva- tive "sleepers" are removed from office which is practically certain at the next general election. The Liberal policy is, "to secure the building up of a Good Roads system throughout the prov- ince . . . thereby facilitating traffic and ensuring quick delivery of farm and garden produce.

The Ontario Liberal Party to-day is seriously studying all questions relat- ing to the agricultural welfare of the province, in the confident expectation of an early return to power. Since 1911 its representatives in the House have urged and pleaded the cause of the farmer; and their success in allev- iating offensive conditions, although in opposition, and the soundness of their public proposals for the advancement of agriculture, are fast finding recog- nition among the farming community.

It was a Liberal Government which in 1896 initiated the Good Roads Movement, realizing the importance of country roads as a factor in trans- portation, and recognizing their value to the farmer in making agriculture more profitable, farm life more agree- able, and in increasing the value of farm property. With this in view the government appointed a Highways Commissioner to direct the expendi- ture on the construction and mainte- nance of roads and passed legislation under which appropriations might be made in connection with the develop- ment of the Good Roads system.

MR. ROWELL VISITS SCOTLAND AND IRELAND.

London, September 6th.—Mr. Newton W. Rowell, K.C., M.P.P., leader of the Ontario Opposition, has returned to London after visiting both Scotland and Ireland. On September 5th he went to Birmingham to attend the Trades Union Congress.

During his visit to Scotland he viewed a portion of the British fleet, being received on board H. M. S. "Lion" by Admiral Beatty, of Jut- land Battle fame. The activity in the Clyde Shipbuilding Yards much im- pressed the Canadian statesman.

In Ireland Mr. Rowell was royally entertained at Dublin and Belfast by the Lord Mayors and leading citizens. He has devoted much attention to agricultural questions, seeing many leaders both Nationalists and Union- ists.

PROVINCIAL NOTES

AGRICULTURE.

The policy of loans to farmers under- taken by the Ontario Government after a good deal of pressure from the Liberals in the Legislature does not meet the requirements of farmers in the older parts of the Province. Set- tlers in New Ontario are receiving more or less assistance from govern- ment sources, especially since the recent disastrous fires; but the great call is for adequate governmental assistance in connection with the rais- ing live-stock in districts already per- manently settled. Farmers complain that expansion in this direction is re- tardated by the lack of sufficient capital, (1), to enable them to purchase stock at a time when prices are favorable, and (2), to carry them over the inter- vening period between outlay and re-imbursement when the cattle are ready for market, and prices are suit- able for advantageously disposing of stock. It is pointed out that short term loans are useless for this purpose, six months being the minimum period which would be required to justify a farmer in increasing his stock, taking into consideration the many other demands upon the available capital of the average farmer.

Real opportunities for the promotion of cattle raising and stock fattening on the farms in Ontario are missed by the shortsightedness of the present Ontario Administration. It has been evident for some time past that Con- servative members in the Legislature are "sleeping partners" of the govern- ment. It fact, the opinion is gather- ing strength that the whole outfit has been asleep for a long time, and is being rudely awakened by a dissatis- fied electorate in each consecutive bye- election which has taken place. Be that as it may, Liberal members have made it apparent, both inside and out of the house, that they are not so afflicted, or their leadership so stunted. Individual Liberal members with an intimate knowledge of the agricul- tural situation have repeatedly urged upon the government the necessity of a more advanced policy, especially in regard to rural credits, good roads and the encouragement of labor to the farms and the discouragement of the tendency of young Ontario farm- ers to migrate west.

A Provincial General Election is within the bounds of possibility at no very distant date; and the signs are that popular resentment is becoming so incensed against the "sleepers" in the cabinet at Toronto that the reins of office will be taken from their grasp and handed to their more virile politi- cal opponents.

MR. ROWELL'S MOVEMENTS.

"The Evening Standard" of London, England, in its edition of Aug. 11th, reports an interview with Mr. Rowell the Ontario Liberal Leader. It says in part:—

"Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., Leader of the Opposition, in the Ontario Legis- lature, and a growing forceful person- ality in the Dominion, is on a visit to Britain and France. What Ontario thinks of him is indicated by the fact that he was invited to undertake his leadership even before he had been elected to the House of Representa- tives. He is the type of quiet, strong man which the colonies are producing. He has no use for wandering fantasti- cal ideas, his thoughts are designed to become actions. He has been to the front and had two messages from the men.

The thing most frequently mention- ed to me by the men out there," said

I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel like a new woman. I now weigh 127 pounds so you can see what it has done for me already. My husband says he knows your medicine has saved my life."—Mrs. J. S. BARLOW, 1624 South 4th St., Columbus, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com- pound contains just the virtues of roots and herbs needed to restore health and strength to the weakened organs of the body. That is why Mrs. Barlow, a chronic invalid, recovered so completely.

anxiety was as to the men we are sending out to support them."

Mr. Rowell gave it as his opinion that the service of women would have to be used more in Canada in con- nection with war work. He gave the Standard representative some interest- ing facts regarding the influence of the war on the temperance question in Canada.

On Aug. 17th, Mr. Rowell entertain- ed the Canadian journalists in Lon- don as his guests at tea at the Savoy Hotel.

Among the exciting experiences undergone by the Liberal Leader has been a flight in a seaplane, his pilot being a young officer from Ontario.

Whilst in France, Mr. Rowell inter- ested himself in what is being done there on behalf of the wounded sol- diers to equip them for return of civil life. Three training schools attached to hospitals were visited, where indus- tries were being taught, such as shoe- making, basket-weaving, light metal craft, barbering, typewriting and stenography. One of these schools was for blinded men.

It is expected that Mr. Rowell will address various public meetings shortly after his return, in order to give Can- adians at home the benefit of his ex- periences.

THE END OF THE WAR

Every bit of evidence upon which opinion as to the probable length of the war may be formed is of great interest to those who have friends at the front. It is worthy of note that Ottawa is perfecting recruiting plans on the basis of a possible two-years' extension of hostilities. Contracts for shell are still being awarded by the Allies which call for the delivery of enormous quantities of high-explosive projectiles in July, 1917. It has been stated officially in the British House of Commons that Britain will not be in a position to exert her maximum strength on the western front till next summer. Mr. Balfour has recently visited Clyde and called upon the workmen there for ever greater exertions to keep up Britain's supply of naval and mercantile vessels, which is constantly men there for ever greater exertions to keep up Britain's supply of naval and mercantile vessels, which is constantly lessening through the efforts of the enemy's submarines and because of accidents.

These signs all indicate that Germany is still regarded as a formidable foe, and that although victory is assured, the Allies can reap its fruits only by tremendous exertions which may conceivably carry hostilities well into the fourth year. The prolongation of the war until the artillery superiority of the Allies is more marked on all fronts than it has been on the western front during the past two months might be the means of saving the lives of hundreds of thousands of British, French, and Russian soldiers who will have to be sacrificed in hand-to-hand fighting if the Allies seek to secure a decision by the weight of numbers alone. A British officer dealing with this feature of the situation is reported as saying:

"If we prefer to end the summer offensive and wait for spring we shall have quadruple the number of guns and so much ammunition that we shall have to keep up daily a battle of guns on four times the length of the present front, with all the shell fire of the biggest day in this summer's offensive, in order to consume the supplies arriving daily across the Channel. Our present position of artillery and infantry advantage on the Somme front in settled trench warfare means simply that we could kill two Germans to every Briton or the Germans kill."

The chiefs of the Allied nations have before them, therefore, the necessity of weighing men's lives against the ability of France and Russia to continue heaping up supplies of shells. The cost of munitions is prodigious. It may be that the tremendous additions to the national debt of Britain's allies make haste and the consequent sacrifice of many lives inevitable. Britain herself has still much capital with which to carry on the war, and the British policy, were that the governing idea of the strategy of the Allies, would be to defer the final great offensive until the Allied artillery could so completely dominate that of Germany that the war would be won with a minimum of loss in life and limb. France and Russia may not care to assume the financial burden and risk of waiting. In that event the end of the war may reasonably be expected some time next summer, following a period of terrific fighting in the open field.

It is with very great pleasure that the above committee acknowledges its indebtedness to The H. E. Maddock, Co., for a most generous donation of towelling, which is so much required for hospital supplies; and which is so greatly appreciated. The committee begs to convey to Mr. Maddock, through these columns its gratitude for his generosity.

All members of the Chapter and Committee, as well as other citizens are asked to save and tie up their waste paper for the above organization, as collections will soon be made—arrangements for doing so will be completed as early as possible. Magazines, considerably out of date, old pamphlets and catalogues are particularly appreciated. We beg herewith to inform Mr. Alfred Knight that we much value his recent kind offer, and will attend to the matter at the earliest opportunity.

We wish to remind our members once more that it is time our autumn work was taken up with energy and enthusiasm, if we are to accomplish anything worth while; therefore, we again urge all our workers to come forth and attend our work-meetings.

The room is open each Thursday and Saturday afternoon until 5.30 o'clock, and there is always someone present to direct the energies of those who wish to work.

Do not forget to reserve the above afternoons for patriotic work with the above committee.

Toronto hotelkeepers have been "putting one over" on the public. This week, Ontario goes dry, but, instead of waiting for that event, the liquor men have been selling local option non-intoxicating beer for weeks. They have been selling it simply as "beer" and the public hasn't known the difference.

In his story "Two Bags of Wild Ducks," in the September number of Rod and Gun, which is now on the news-stands, Bonnycastle Dale, the naturalist writer and contributor to many Canadian as well as American journals, compares shooting with the gun to shooting with the camera. "Duck Days on Pitt Meadows" describes a duck shooting expedition in another Province, that of British Columbia. "A Bit of Selkirk Bush" is a humorous sketch of an expedition through the Selkirks while "With Dad in the Forests of Quebec" tells something about the good hunting and shooting that is to be had in that Province. The magazine for September is replete with stories of interest to the lover of the out-of-doors and the special departments devoted to guns and Ammunition, Conservation, Fishing Notes, The Kennel, etc., are also of particular interest. This representative Canadian sportsman's magazine is published at Woodstock by W. J. Taylor, Limited.

commissioned officers and men. The extraordinary courage and self-sacrifice displayed by Pte. W. McFad- zeau, late of the Royal Irish Rifles, is recognized. He was in a concentra- tion trench and was opening a box of bombs when the box fell and two of the safety pins fell out. The trench was crowded with men, and McFad- zeau, realizing the danger of his com- rades, heroically threw himself on the bombs. They exploded and blew him to pieces, but only one other man was injured.

"He well knew his danger, being himself a bomber," says the official account, "but without a moment's hesitation he gave his life for his com- rades."

Of Pte. James Miller, late of the Royal Lancaster Regiment, it is re- corded that being ordered to carry a message and bring back a reply at all costs, he was shot in the back im- mediately after he had left the British trench and the bullet came out at the abdomen. Nevertheless, compressing the wound with one hand, he deliver- ed the message, staggered back with the answer, and fell dead at the feet of the officer to whom he gave it.

FOR JUST ONE MAN.

With the Compliments of the Military Hospitals Commission.

A soldier arrived at a town in Ont- ario the other day, invalidated home from the war, and the whole town turned out to meet him.

Just for one man. Sixty motor cars in procession, a brass band, a public meeting, an ad- dress of welcome, a presentation gold watch,—all for just one man.

He deserved it all; we are quite wil- ling to take that for granted; but if all this appreciation is due to one man, how much is due to the hundreds coming back every month?

Brass bands are not to be despised, still less are gold watches. Welcome the brave, with cheers and full music- al accompaniment, if you will. Strong feelings often demand loud expression. In fact, when we hear of men coming back and finding no one at the station to welcome them, we feel that some- thing has been left undone which we ought to have done. See to this, Can- adians everywhere.

But this is only a beginning. There is something much more important and lasting that we must see to.

Every man coming back is of some value to the community. That value has been reduced by injury or sickness.

We must increase it again by every available resource of medical and edu- cational science.

"That is what the Military Hospitals Commission is doing", it may be said, and truly. But the Commission is only doing it on your behalf, as representa- tive of the public.

The individual members of the public can help, and ought to help.

The friends of a returned soldier in a convalescent hospital can encourage him to take all possible advantage of the educational classes and physical training, and to seize opportunities of employment or continued training when he comes out.

The public at large, whether as friends of particular soldiers or not, can help the affiliated Provincial Commissions to find employment for all.

Every man doing steady work suited to his capacity is a gain to himself and his country.

Every man left idle, or performing some trifling task beneath his capa- city, or trying to do work he is unfit for, is wasted.

And Canada cannot afford to waste a man.

Remarkable prices were realized at a jewel sale at Christie's in Lon- don. A necklace, composed of 193 pearls, was bought by Messrs. Tan- burn & Co. for $120,000, and a single-row pearl necklace was sold for $24,000. The $120,000 is a London record. In 1902 the Dudley pearl necklace of 47 round pearls realized $111,000, to be beaten in the following year by the Gordon-Len- nox three rows of 287 pearls at $112,500. In 1907 the Lewis-Hill adornment of 229 pearls reached $80,000; the necklace of 46 pearls belonging to the late Lily Duchess of Marlborough, brought $85,000 in 1911, and the Lindsay necklace of 53 pearls, $72,000 in 1912. The neck- lace now offered as "the property of a lady," was in three rows of 193 pearls of superb Orient with a deli- cate tinge of pink, the pearls being beautifully matched and cunningly graduated.

Wounds and Infection.

The professional healer, like the professional fighter, has found that many of the things he learnt in South Africa he has had to unlearn in Flanders. Wounds seldom proved troublesome in the Boer War, be- cause the South Africanveldt was al- most virgin; but in Belgium and France, where the land has been cul- tivated for centuries, the gentle germ is always ready to enter the smallest wound and bring about tetanus and other diseases. At first the sur- geons were in despair, fearing that our much-vaunted antiseptics were of no avail.

It required long search and ex- periment before methods of overcom- ing new difficulties could be discov- ered. Then, owing to the lavish use of high-explosive shells, wounds are more complicated and more difficult to keep clean, while the pointed bul- let works more harm than the blunt one of the "good old days." Plenty of fresh air is found to work mar- vels, so there is at least one hospital in which the patients live practically in the open. It has also been found that wounds remain clean if water continually flows over them, so the clever surgeon has constructed little baths which fit over the wound, a supply of warm water impregnated with oxygen continually flowing through.

Bismarck and His Dog.

Sultan, Prince Bismarck's favorite boarhound, attacked a passing railroad train and was cut to pieces. Bismarck's grief over the dog's agonies was such that his son Herbert tried to lead him away, but the prince would not go. "No; I cannot leave him like this." Then, when the dog's sufferings were over, Bismarck wiped his eyes and murmured: "Our Tonton forefathers showed benevolence in their religion. They believed they would find in the hunting grounds of their paradise all the dogs that had been their faith- ful comrades here below. I fervently wish I could believe that."—London Mail.

She Had Suspensions.

She—But how do I know you love me?

He—Why, I can't sleep at nights thinking of you.

She—That proves nothing. Pa can't sleep at nights thinking of you, but I hardly think it is love.—London Story Stories.

Wool In Early Virginia.

Great encouragement was given in Virginia in early days to the raising and manufacture of wool. The assem- bly estimated that five children not over thirteen years of age could by their work readily spin and weave enough to keep thirty persons clothed. Six pounds of tobacco were paid to any one bringing to the county courthouse where he resided a yard of homespun woolen cloth made wholly in his fam- ily; twelve pounds of tobacco were of- fered as a reward for a dozen pairs of woolen hose knitted at home. Slaves were taught to spin, and wool wheels and wool cards are found in the eight- eenth century on every inventory of planters' house furnishings.

Eskimo Games.

In the matter of amusements the Eskimo are not badly off. They have a form of the cup-and-ball game played there, the ball being a block of ivory with holes at different an- gles, into which one of the players strives to insert an ivory peg as the block falls, the position of the hole determining the value of the stroke.

Another game closely resembles dominoes, while, when they can bor- row or purchase a pack of cards, the more intelligent of them will play with considerable skill; and they en- joy draughts, having learned these games from the whalers. They also have a game exactly like solitaire, with the exception that ivory pegs take the place of glass balls.

The special amusement of the wo- men is a species of "cat's cradle," which has been brought to such per- fection that they develop from the string twenty to thirty different fig- ures in it. Indeed, they are ex- tremely clever in performing tricks with string, winding and twisting a piece in and out among their fingers, and then disentangling it by a single pull on one end.

Perfect cooking and baking with least expenditure of heat is assured by the double flue system forcing heat twice around the oven of

BARS MUST CLOSE AT SEVEN P.M. SHARP

The hotel-keeper who keeps his bar
open after 7 o'clock on the evening of Saturday, Sept. 16th, will be "mighty unwise," to quote Chairman Flavell
of the License Board who expressed his opinions on the matter.

Legally it is a fine point. The old License Act, which said he must close at 7 o'clock, goes out of effect on the tick of 7. The Ontario Temperance Act is effective at the same moment.
Now, under the provisions of the latter act, the hotel-keeper is not forced to close his bar at 7.

But the crux of the question lies in this: Up to 7 o'clock he may have liquor in his bar and on his premises.
A moment after that he may not.
Technically, the Board's inspectors
could go into a man's bar a moment
after 7 o'clock on Sept. 16th, and if he found any liquor there, prosecute him under the provisions of the new act, which provides a fine of between $200 and $1000.

Manifestly some latitude must be allowed. The Board is willing to allow that latitude—if the bar is closed
promptly at 7 o'clock Saturday night.
But otherwise the hotel-keeper would
be "mighty unwise."

The Board will give absolutely no

that attitude—if the bar is closed
promptly at 7 o'clock Saturday night.
But otherwise the hotel-keeper would
be "mighty unwise."
The Board will give absolutely no
indication of how long hotel-keepers
will be given to get their stock of liquors off the premises, but it is generally understood that they will be reasonable in this matter. They will, it may be assumed, accept the spirit of the law if the hotel-keepers will reciprocate; but on this they are determined, the bars shall close at 7 o'clock
Saturday night.
It is not yet known what regulations will be made in standard hotels
for time limits in soft drink bars.
That will be a matter for consideration later.
It has been suggested that the Board will be willing to wink at irregular sales of bottles during the week, to enable hotelmen to dispose of their stocks. Chairman Flavell is equally determined on this point also.
Any such cases that come to the Board's attention will be prosecuted
as vigorously as though the present Act were going to remain in force indefinitely. The advent of Sept. 16th will not make any difference to prosecutions which may take place after the demise of the Act if the event
prosecuted took place before it.

WAR LOAN DOMINION OF CANADA

As with the previous Loan, we predict a great success for this issue. During this period of stress our Government needs our help and counts upon our patriotism. But a chance is given investors of placing their money in securities of the highest grade, upon terms the liberality of which will, perhaps, not be fully realized until the return of normal times.

If this Loan were issued to yield 4½%, instead of about 5.35%, the price would be 105.41, instead of 97.50. A 4% yield (the basis on which Dominion Government bonds sold so recently as 1914) would mean a price of 111 for the present issue.

We will forward your application, procure your allotment and render other services free of charge to you.

A TALE of RED ROSES

By
GEORGE
RANDOLPH
CHESTER

Just off the governor's stuffed leather library was a small room, with a hard desk and six hard chairs, and a hard looking letter file, and a hard, fire-proof safe let into the wall, and here, while Lord Bunnchase led Molly Marley through the paces of a hard two-step, Governor Waver and Senator Allerton and Sledge and Frank Marley gathered for a few moments of comfortable chat such as elderly gentlemen love to indulge in while frivolous younger people dance the flying hours away. All four being gentlemen who, by the consent of the public, bore the grave responsibility of the public welfare on their shoulders. It was not strange that their chat should turn to public affairs.

"I am glad to be identified with the enterprise," avowed State Senator Allerton, who was a suave, clean faced gentleman, with a good forehead and a quite negotiable tongue. "At the same time, as far as I am privately concerned, I can only regard it as a temporary investment."

"Why temporary?" demanded Frank Marley, who was feeling particularly capable this evening. His $175,000 worth of street railway stock had been increased to $262,500. He was to have $87,500 cash out of the undivided surplus of the old company, and his daughter, Molly, was the most popular girl at the governor's ball. "The street railway company has always made money, and the city needs additional transportation facilities. We have reached the normal period of extension, and I do not see what is to prevent us from limitless prosperity."

"The franchises," Senator Allerton reminded him. "Your present permits have less than five years to run."

"I have never had any trouble in having them renewed," objected Marley, priding himself on his management.

"Times are changing," sighed Allerton. "There is a growing disposition on the part of the public to charge public service corporations for the use of public property."

"The people are ungrateful," mourned Governor Waver, who had enriched himself through furnishing electric light at his own price to a public which had known nothing better than gas. "The moment they see a profit on their luxuries they want part of it. An undivided surplus such as the street car company has had is a constant menace."

"That was a sinking fund for extension. He was a trifle too important, too capable and too wealthy to be ordered about like a messenger boy by a man who might shortly be a convicted criminal. Molly had arranged an interview between her father and Bert on the previous afternoon, and Mr. Marley also now knew a thing or two.

"I would suggest tomorrow," he stated coldly. "I should much prefer to talk with you during business hours."

"This ain't business," said Sledge, leading the way into the library, where he took a seat in an alcove.

Marley followed him reluctantly.

"If it is my family affairs"—he began in protest.

"Sit down," directed Sledge. "Bert Glider has been making threats against me."

"Has he?" inquired Marley noncommittally.

"Tell him to quit or make good," ordered Sledge.

"Really, Mr. Sledge, I don't see where I can interfere," reproved Mr. Marley. "The matter is entirely between you and Bert."

"He's a friend of yours," charged Sledge.

"Yes," acknowledged Marley, feeling that he could afford to acknowledge it now that the street car reorganization had gone beyond the point where Sledge could stop it.

"How about this marriage with Molly?"

"That's Molly's affair," stated Marley stiffly.

"You know he's broke, don't you?"

"I heard something of the sort," admitted Marley. "He's a clever young man, however, and until he gets on his feet again I have money enough for both."

"You won't stop it, then?"

"Certainly not," declared Marley, feeling that he might just as well make capital for courage out of the fact that he could not in the slightest degree influence Molly. "I might, perhaps, prefer a more brilliant match for Molly, but I do not need to make it a matter of money, and there is no better family in America than Bert's. The Maryland Gliders are the oldest and best she confidently invited him. "We'll see who gets the worst of it. By the way, maybe you wouldn't mind telling me the new jolt I am to receive."

Sledge chuckled.

"Your dad says he don't care if Bert is a bum."

"He isn't!" she hotly denied.

"Your dad's a game sport. He says he has enough money for both."

"Good for daddy!" she cried, delighted.

"Sure!" grunted Sledge. "I'm goanna break him too."

CHAPTER V.

Sledge Reduces His Salary List.

SLEDGE walked back through the Occident in such a mood that the regular members of the "Good morning, Ben." brigade fell away from him like bar flies from a cake of ice. Even Doc Turner, waiting the daily advent of the boss, met with the rebuff of stony silence and sat down in his favorite newspaper corner, with his crusted brown derby jammed down to his ears and his thin long stub of cigar puckered tightly in at the corner of his wrinkled lips, where it looked at a distance like a speck of black rot in a dusty potato. Doc had digested, condensed and purveyed news to the big chief so long that he felt a proprietorship in that department and was justly offended when Tom Bendix came in a few minutes later.

"What's the matter with Sledge this morning?" snarled Doc.

"How do I know?" immediately snarled Bendix. "I don't sleep with him."

"He's got a grouch on him a foot thick," complained Doc. "He gave me a cold turndown. Walked straight through me without even a grunt."

"I'll tell Sledge he'd better be careful," sarcastically commented Bendix.

"Well, Kelly, what do you want?"

Schooner Kelly, who was afflicted with pink whiskers and a perennial thirst, stopped scratching.

"Two bits," he stated, with admirable clarity. "What's the matter with Big Ben?"

"He's teething," replied Bendix, producing the desired two bits, without which Schooner Kelly would be a nuisance for hours to come.

A low browed thug, with a long and wide scar sunk in one cheek, drew Bendix mysteriously aside.

"The Dutchman down in the Eighth ward has rented his back room to the Hazelnut club," he stated.

"Well?" inquired Bendix.

"Well, the Hazelnut club has Charley Atwood for its president, and Charley is a brother-in-law of Purcell."

"I see," said Bendix. "I suppose Dutch Klein knew this?"

"The Cameron picture's down off his back bar."

"Tell him you told me," advised Bendix, weighing the matter carefully, for of such trifles was political control constructed.

"Is that the worst news I can carry?" demanded the other, disappointed.

"If there's any worse we'll send it out when the wagon backs up," responded Bendix dryly.

"All right, captain," agreed the tale bearer. "Say, can you slip me an ace?"

Sledge pondered that matter and sighed.

"Give him a big law job."

"We haven't anything but the Distillers' and league, but we promised the governor."

"Give it to Lansdale," ordered "I'll send Waver to Swift want his house, anyhow."

"You promised a consultant. It's the only one Waver name."

"Hoover's a nit," declared turning slightly toward Bendix of emphasis. "He goes card."

"Good work?" approved "Young Bailey Cooper has a of Hoover's leadership. I have been counting on this and Brewers' job, though, good man to fight the doctor. Waver knows it."

"He has to go to Switzerland Sledge.

"How about Blake?" asked

An undivided surplus such as the street car company has had is a constant menace."

"That was a sinking fund for extensions and improvements," Marley reminded him. "The stockholders had no right to ask for a division of it."

"They would if we had not put it out of harm's road," insisted the governor. "That much has been saved to the men who really earned it, but I should not like to see a similar profit exposed. To my mind, a 7 per cent dividend is an even worse folly."

"It gives confidence in the stock," argued Marley. "The public would never be so eager to take up this new issue if it had not been for that 7 per cent dividend."

"That's what it was for," interpolated Sledge, looking out of the window into the sunken garden and vainly hunting the hand hole in the gate.

"It has served its purpose," granted Allerton, "but taxpayers are becoming greedy. When they see the stockholders of a public corporation making 7 per cent they want some of it and try to make the corporations pay part of their taxes. In every city of importance the voters are demanding pay for street car franchises and making the street railway companies, in addition, bear half the cost of all street improvements."

"It's a bad outlook," agreed Governor Waver. "Frankly, as soon as I receive my new issue of stock I shall have it quietly placed on sale."

Marley looked at him indignantly.

"Why, the street railway company is entering on the greatest period of prosperity in its career," he asserted. "There'll be no trouble about franchises. The city is wild to have the improvements and must have them."

Allerton looked at him wonderingly.

"Waver is right," he stated. "I shall sell my own stock, and I'll venture to say that Sledge has already made silent arrangements for disposing of his. Do you know that the franchises at present granted in this state are revocable and that it is not possible to secure one which is positively safe for longer than ten year periods? When you come to the renewal of your franchises, Marley, you will be met with a demand for pay and will have other restrictions imposed on you. Our present franchise law, in view of the public tendency, is a bad one for investors."

"Let's fix it," suggested Sledge.

"I'm afraid it's too late," protested Allerton.

"Not for a new gag," dissented Sledge. "A new one can be put over quick."

"I fancy that there should be protection somewhere," opined the governor. "No matter what changes in public sentiment, the investing class, upon which the public depends for prosperity, must always be protected."

"But how?" inquired the senator.

"How in this particular case?"

"Head 'em off," grunted Sledge. "I'm keeping my stock."

"I'd be glad to hold mine," stated the senator. "But how is it to be made of future value?"

"That's up to you," Sledge replied, rising. "Figure it out and see me tomorrow. Marley, I want to talk to you."

Mr. Marley, today a man worth over a third of a million dollars in the street railway stock alone, arose in offended stock in this country. Moreover, above all things, I wish to see my daughter happy."

"So do I," asserted Sledge. "That's why she can't marry this pinhead. I want her myself."

"Molly has made her choice," declared her father firmly.

"So you lay down, eh?"

"I decline to interfere."

"Making Bert a bum cuts no ice?"

"His temporary financial condition has no bearing in the matter. I should feel humiliated to think that I had allowed that trifling consideration to be a factor."

"Huh!" grunted Sledge. "You got enough for both, eh?"

"Quite enough," and Marley reflected, with a pleasant feeling of superiority, upon the moment soon to come when this political and commercial bully would be cringing.

"Then watch out for your eye," warned Sledge and, rising, walked out into the drawing rooms.

He found Molly quite busy, but, since she was only occupied with a state representative and a local millionaire and the mayor and the young champion of the tennis players' club, he borrowed her.

She was astounded to see, how they melted before him and almost had a feeling of wildly clutching at the coat tails of the mayor, whom she heartily disliked.

"I'm sorry for you, Molly," Sledge told her as he pre-empted the piano alcove. "I got to hand you another jolt."

"You're a fast worker," she complimented him. "But you'll have to work faster. I just gave Willie Walters a hint of the splendid news we are to have for the Blade, and he is tickled to death."

"Good work!" applauded Sledge. "I want that pulled quick."

Molly smiled.

"All right. Go as far as you like,"

sponded Sledge dryly.

"All right, captain," agreed the tale bearer. "Say, can you slip me an ace?"

Bendix slipped him an ace from a fund provided for that purpose.

"Thanks," said the thug. "Say, what's the matter with Sledge?"

"None of your business!" snapped Bendix, with a wondering glance at the back room, and he waded through the usual morning lineup with that wonder growing on him. The actions and bearing of Sledge varied by so thin a hair's breadth from day to day that a notable variation meant something.

He found Sledge standing up, and then he knew that there was something in the wind.

"Get Bozzam," directed Sledge, and Bendix went straight out to the telephone.

"Get Davis," directed Sledge when Bendix came back, and Bendix, vaguely pitying somebody, hurried out to the telephone again.

"Get Feeder," was the next order. Bendix almost whistled as he hurried out to locate by telephone the ex-county treasurer, who for two years had been drawing a handsome salary from Sledge for keeping his mouth shut about the public funds scandal.

"Get Gally," rumbled Sledge, who had not moved from his contemplative post by the window, and Bendix, keeping his growing wonder to himself and replying with a shrug to the soberly questioning glance of the concerned Phil, telephoned for the Sledge leader in the city council.

Sledge, having sent for everybody he needed, was sitting more quietly in his accustomed chair when Bendix returned from his last trip and was looking with his usual stolidness out of the window after having donned the fresh red rose, which he had put on religiously three times a day since he had met Molly Marley.

"Council meeting this afternoon?" he asked.

"Two-thirty," answered Bendix.

"How much of the stock is subscribed in the reorganized street railway?"

"Hundred and eighty-five thousand. I got the report just before I came over."

"Get ours on the market. Gum shoe sales, but do it quick."

"Who's to be soaked—Marley?" guessed Bendix.

"The limit," assented Sledge. "Bendix, what's the worst they could hand me on that public funds case?"

"Two or three years if they got you going," judged Bendix. "That's dead now, however."

"It's back."

"Has Feeder been talking?" Sledge nodded.

"Who knows anything?"

"Glider—Marley."

"Hunh!" grunted Bendix in unconscious imitation of Sledge. "What are you going to do?"

"Call it."

"You don't mean to bring it to a showdown!" protested Bendix. "We can't afford it with Lansdale and Blake on the bench. Judge Lansdale especially would part with his right arm to toss a harpoon into you."

"Get rid of him."

"I don't see how," worried Bendix. "We've tried for two years to get something on him. He can't be reach-

"He has to go to New York," cided Sledge.

"How about Blake?" asked

"We'll take a chance."

Bendix shook his head.

"Blake's against you," he

"Besides that, there's an election off."

"We lose," Sledge rumbled due, anyhow."

"I guess you're right," agreed Bendix reluctantly. "So long as to lose we might as well make one. If there's any other scam we may as well arrange a sprung and get it all cleared once."

"Fix Lansdale today!" cried Sledge.

"I'll go see Schwarzman and, of course, have him off to Lansdale, so he won't come from us. Schwarzman didn't want to change his legiment until fall. That won't pose?"

"Today," announced Sledge

"I got you," replied Bendix

"If Lansdale takes the job to resign from the bench fully," and no assent to this necessary, he hurried out to ma pointment with the president Distillers' and Brewers' league

A grunt of assent was Sledge as he looked out along the fence which bound in the new way. A thing which had a mop leaned in a corner by scantlings, decaying.

"It's a family reunion," declared
Gally. "Is that all, Sledge?"

"Wait," said Sledge and looked out
at the mop.

Everybody sat down, and there seemed to be some important topic in abeyance. They indulged in no trifling conversation, but looked out of the window. Bendix ordered drinks, which they consumed silently and solemnly.
Sledge evidently had some weighty plan on his mind, for he only drank
half his beer.

Davis of the First National came in,
a pompous man, with a fish fat double chin and pompous white side whiskers and a white waistcoat. He stood at the other side of the table, but Sledge
beckoned him closer, and Davis, wearing an impenetrable air of mystery,
leaned his whiskered ear far down.

"Call Marley's loans," rumbled the boss in a tone which at three feet
away sounded like a tuba sawmill.

"Is he shaky?" inquired Davis in a panic stricken whisper.

"He will be," promised Sledge.

"Why, he owes the bank $55,000" returned Davis, more panic stricken than ever, and his whispering sounded like the exhaust of a safety valve. "I'll go right away and protect the bank.
What has happened to him, Mr.
Sledge?"

"Nothing yet," stated Sledge. "Sit down, Davis."

Mr. Davis sat down, and the four who had been told to wait looked at one another with growing wonder and at the impassive big man, who was still drawing inspiration from the decrepit mop.

Five minutes passed. Bendix and Bozzam and Gally sat in comfortable
quiet, resting all their faculties, physical, mental and moral, but Mr. Davis fidgeted audibly. He twiddled his fingers, he fussed with his cravat, he ran slip nooses in his watch cord, he wiped his reading glasses and put them
on and took them off.

Five minutes more passed. Mr. Davis in desperation rang the bell for the velvet footed Adolph and ordered a drink. In other gatherings Mr. Bozzam would have enlivened the moment
with a story or with conversation and repartee. On occasion he could have sung a song or recited a poem or played seven-up, craps or tiddledywinks, all
with the pleasing finish of a professional. Just now, however, he remained as placidly calm as a cake of Swiss cheese.

A step came down the narrow passageway. A rawboned fellow appeared in the doorway. He was tall and big and wore good clothes. His hands were coarse and had bulbous finger
tips, with extremely broad, stubby
nails, but they showed no signs of recent toil. He had a wide mouth and prominent cheek bones and a low forehead. He looked like a retired coal heaver. The exigencies of politics had once made him county treasurer, and since then he had lived in prosperous idleness.

Sledge arose and walked around to the front of the table.

"Say, Feeder," he growled, "I've been paying you seventy-five a month for two years. That right?"

"Yes," hesitated Feeder, with a puzzled glance at the unusual crowd in the little room.

"What for?" demanded Sledge.

Consider Well Before You Open One of These Doors.

"All the beauty and wonder of life lie in the choice we make and all the tragedy too."

Every moment of our lives some choice confronts us, and we are called upon to use our judgment, our experience, our faith, our self confidence, in making our decision.

Going through life is like traveling
down a long corridor which constantly presents closed doors on either side—alternate doors—one of which we must open and pass through, irrevocably. We cannot make use of both doors, nor can we retrace our steps, nor even reconsider our choice, once the latch has been lifted. We must abide by our decision. There are no exchanges. We must do our considering before we choose, not after. And the choice once made, whether for good or ill, for better or worse, we must pay the full price.

This is well expressed by an old Persian proverb: "Take what you will,"
said the gods to mortals, "but pay for
it." This would be like a great balance

d glance at the unusual crowd in
the little room.
"What for?" demanded Sledge.
Mr. Feeder smiled ingratiatingly, but paled in the process.
"Campaign work," he replied.
"What for?" demanded Sledge.
"Well, I"— And, more puzzled than ever, he looked around the equally puzzled gathering. Even Bendix was at a loss.
"What for, I say?" suddenly thundered Sledge.
"On the level?" inquired Feeder. "I don't get this, Sledge. I don't see"—
"Tell 'em!"
"Well, if you got to have it"—
He stopped, gave another glance at his audience and stared at Sledge incredulously.
Sledge advanced a step toward him.
"I said tell 'em."
"Here goes, then," responded Feeder,
exasperated—"for keeping my mouth
shut about receiving the public funds
interest money for you."
"You're a liar!" boomed Sledge and,
suddenly stepping forward with marvelous agility for so ponderous a man,
swung his right arm, the biceps of which was like a thigh, and knocked Feeder straight through the door.
"Throw him out," he directed and sat down.
Bendix accepted that commission as readily as if it had been a suggestion to ring for another drink. A rather heavy man himself, he stepped lightly
into the passageway, grabbed Feeder by the collar as he was rising and punched him in the ear. Phil and Blondy, both gentlemanly bartenders,
selected for the hardness and limber-
ness of their shoulders, came running back as promptly as fire horses at the sound of the gong.
"Rough toss," explained Bendix briefly, handing his collar hold to Phil.
There was a rattle of chairs and tables and the crash of two or three glasses interspersed with an occasional smack. There were exclamations from a few hangers on and a few inadvertent oaths from the astonished Feeder,
but Phil and Blondy were voiceless
until, after battering Feeder at the curb until a policeman came up, they turned him over for a wagon call.
"What's the charge?" asked the officer.
"Pink necktie, I think," returned Phil. "But I'll find out," and he ran back to Sledge's room. "Feeder's pinched," he stated. "Want it to stick?"
"Uh-hunh!" grunted Sledge.
"Copper's fussy. He wants to know what's the charge."
Sledge took a slow survey of his witnesses, and the faintest possible suspicion of a twinkle came into his small gray eyes.
"Attempted blackmail," he chuckled.

CHAPTER VI.

Frank Marley Discovers a Great Team.
MOLLY stopped singing as her father called her into his den.
She hardly recognized his voice, and his face was so
drawn and pale that she was startled.
"What's the matter, father? Are you ill?" she asked, deeply concerned.
"Not at all," he assured her. "A slight headache. Molly, I've been thinking about your future all night,

"You're a liar!" boomed Sledge.
and I am very much worried about
you. Bert has proved himself thoroughly incapable. His fine old family blood does not seem to support him in a crisis."
"Did you expect anything else of old
family blood?" she demanded, smiling.
"I didn't."
"As your father, I cannot help being concerned," replied Mr. Marley. "Bert has done nothing but whine and make weak threats and stay half intoxicated
ever since Sledge shook him away from the complacent safety of his few thousands."
"I've given him two weeks to get
over the shock," she lightly answered.
"He'll come up all waxed and curled."
"His time's almost up," her father pointed out. "Molly, I think Sledge proved a very good case against Bert.
He called him a pinhead."
Molly wanted to snicker, but she was indignant instead.
"That's better than being a fathead,"
she retorted. "That's what Bert calls Sledge. It seems to me that they're about even."
"That's where they stop being even,"
declared Marley. "Sledge threatened to break Bert and did it. Bert threatened to expose Sledge, and Sledge beat him to it."
"That's my fault," she half angrily
acknowledged. "I bragged."
"Bert led you to think you might,"
he countercharged. "He even had me believing that I could defy Sledge, and it can't be done, Molly. That man's too big, too decisive and too fearless.
The minute he found that Bert, and,
through him, you and I, knew that Feeder would prove Sledge's guilt in the public funds case he sent for Feeder,
knocked him down, had him beaten
half insensible and arrested for attempted blackmail."
(To be continued)

This is well expressed by an old Persian proverb: "Take what you will,"
said the gods to mortals, 'but pay for
it.'" This world is like a great balance sheet, and the man has not been born
who has found a way to tamper with

The Arts of Asia.

It was Asia, through Arabia, which gave Europe the literature, the arts
and the sciences which we have developed and of which we now boast. Gunpowder was probably invented in China. It was certainly introduced into Europe from Arabia. The finely tempered steel of Damascus went over from Arabia at the time of the Moorish invasion of Spain, and its manufacture was continued at Toledo. The copper-smiths of Bagdad supplied the world's market with their wonderful productions centuries before there were any industries in Europe. Weaving of silk and cotton had its birth as an industry
in Arabia, and the weaving of wool was learned by the crusaders in the same wonderful country. Astronomy, mathematics, the mariner's compass—
all came to us from the Arabs.

Doubly Criminal.

Mr. Grimes (with great indignation)—
I've finished with that fellow Skinner, absolutely finished with him. He's a bad one. He has a lying tongue in his head. Mrs. Grimes (sympathetically)—
Dear me! And only yesterday his wife told me that he had false teeth.

Question:—
What is pure paint?

Answer:—

70% pure white lead
plus
30% pure white zinc
Equals 100% pure paint.

Why?

Because white lead and white zinc, mixed in these proportions, produce a paint that resists the elements better than that made by any other formula. Scientific tests and practical experience extending over many years absolutely prove this to be so, and that is why is made by this formula. It is pure paint in the truest sense of the word. A mixture of 10% white lead and 90% white zinc might be called "pure paint" but the expression would be misleading, because the compound would not fulfil all the requirements of a first-class exterior paint.

B-H "English" Paint is pure paint that works easily, penetrates deeply, spreads well, holds its color and lasts years longer than ordinary kinds.

PLANT BLACK W

Very Desirable on the Farm
Lasting Qualities

Because of the very high qualities of its wood and its extremely rapid rate of growth in good locations black walnut is one of the few most desirable plants on the farm. Small rough, gullied or unused land, farm and narrow strips, rows and highways or court yards and stock lots make for planting the valuable method is simple, and heavy crop of nuts makes most favorable time to plant along this line. The region of nut growing is practically from southern New England to the central states and south Carolina and along the northern edge of the gulf states to the black walnut tree is entirely free from insect attack in the wood. The price of walnut lumber in recent years has been consistently high. Another consideration is the rapid increase in supply of walnut trees in its entire range in the States, due to recent cutting to meet the demand for material. The tree yields a wood which may be used for a wide variety of purposes; on a farm in case it is not sold on the market.

To plant the nuts make a hole with a mattock or hoe, drop a nut in each hole and cover with about two inches of fresh, rich soil. For the larger spacing in forest plantations the holes eight feet apart by 8 by 10 feet, which amount to 545 holes per acre for ten years. For small areas or rows and highways the spacing should be about eight feet in the permanent shade is desirable. The distance should be increased during the early period of growth. Subsequently increased to removing the alternate trees. The spacing of nut production should be spaced at intervals of forty to sixty feet apart. A given amount of cultivation is a due amount of cultivation. The area of ground should be addressed to the plant industry of the department of agriculture at Washington. The number of nuts required can be found by knowing approximately the quality, the area of ground and the spacing. Care should be taken not to plant under the trees in the old wood cut during the next year. They are moderately open planed in the winter, so as to be in advance of the removal

ABOUT HANDBAGS.

Infinite Variety of Styles
For All Individual Tastes.

Everywhere one goes the new handbags are most noticeable. Here is a new fashion which has definite variety. No two of them resemble each other. Any woman of taste can design her own handbag and have something personal and unique.

These bags are on the order of the famous pocket of Lucy Lockett—that is to say, they are of the reticule type and hang over the arm by ribbons or chains. They seldom have the gate or silver frame, but draw up through rings or in ment seems to be to go gloveless. The gloves are buttoned or snapped together at the last fastening and thrown across one end of the bag, saddle bag style. It looks very odd to see these white gloves, more or less clean, dangling over the bag.

For a shopping bag the very flat, thin envelope type seems to be the most popular. The polished and seal leathers are the most seen, and this bag has generally a leather handle on one side which can be slid along until it is a mere hand strap through which to thrust the hand.

Hand or arm bags show signs of wear quickly, and nothing takes away from a costume more than a shabby bag. This new style may be easily fashioned by the girl at home, for the inside of the bag is lined and faced with flat material to hold the position which may to say, they are of the reticule type and hang over the arm by ribbons or chains. They seldom have the gate or silver frame, but draw up through rings or in simple old fashioned style through a fold.

These bags are sometimes knitted bead affairs. A very stunning one often seen is so large one expects to find fancy work inside. It hangs over the arm by long platinum chains. The upper part is of suede leather, the lower part knitted in varicolored stripes. There are also saddlebag shapes which hang over the arm. These are made of dark moire silk, generally heavily embroidered and fringed with several colors of beads. Others are embroidered with steel or silver beads.

One extremely large silk bag has a heavy silver frame. The bag part is made of beautiful brocade, often intermingled with gold or silver threads and folded into the silver frame. It is so large and the chain so long that when held over the arm it drops more than halfway down to the knees.

The only sort of arm bag which resembles those carried last season are small shapes, the frames all covered with striped or plain taffeta. These should match the dress worn. The bead frame bags often have little all over patterns of contrasting colored beads.

All bags, whether of the reticule or frame bag type, are fitted inside with the usual small mirror, pocket powder puff, etc. A very odd fancy of the momosture more than a shabby bag. This new style may be easily fashioned by the girl at home, for the inside of the bag is lined and faced with flat pockets to hold the vanities, which may be taken from old cases and recovered.

Extra Fine Piecrust.

One cupful of lard, two cupfuls of flour, one tablespoonful of lemon juice three-quarters of a teaspoonful of salt, one egg and sufficient cold water to hold the mixture together. Sift the flour and salt into a basin. Flour the blade of a knife and chop the lard into the flour, being careful to keep the flour between the blade of the knife and the shortening. When the mixture looks like meal add gradually the egg, well beaten, and mixed with the lemon juice. Roll the pastry into a ball with the knife. It may be used at once, but it will be improved if allowed to stand in a cool place for one hour. This pastry should be rolled out once and handled as lightly as possible. Bake in a hot oven. Lemon juice makes gluten of flour more elastic, so that dough stretches rather than breaks as paste is rolled out.

ter of wax flowers and black velvet ribbon streamers add much to its picturesqueness. It is worn with a white net frock.

Homemade Pillowcases.

Any one who has any spare time can devote it pleasantly and usefully by making pillowcases. They can be made much cheaper than bought and with little or no trouble. You can buy pillow tubing at 25 cents a yard. Two yards will make a pair. Draw very evenly two rows of shallow scallops around the opening. Be careful that you measure them evenly so that you will not have uneven scallops at the end. That done, crochet a double edging without hemming the case. For 55 cents you can make a handsome pair of pillow cases. If desired one or more initials could be embroidered in the center above the crocheted edge.

Barberry Sauce.

One peck of barberries, six quarts of sweet Baldwin apples, sugar and the best molasses. Pick stems off, wash and peel the apples, core and cut in quarters. If you have three bowls of berries after they are picked take two bowls of granulated sugar and one bowl of molasses. Mix, then add the apples and cook till tender. Remove, add the berries, boil hard till you can see the seeds in them, then add the apples and simmer till it is done. You can tell if it is done by cooking a little in a flat dish. If boiled too long it will candy when cold.

What Next?

Polka dot slippers.
Decided bustle effects.
Petticoats ruffled to the waist line.
Chiffon veils with dollar sized dots.
Soldier button links in sweater cuffs.
Three tiered collars of embroidered or crocheted lace.
Velvet parasols to give character to winter frocks.
The leg o' mutton puff and the graceful bishop sleeves.

Fresh Water For Chickens.

Chickens need a constant supply of fresh water, according to W. A. Lippincott, professor of poultry husbandry in the Kansas State Agricultural college. "Running water is best," says Professor Lippincott, "but if this is not available keep the water fresh. Add enough permanganate of potash to make it a wine red. This amount will act as an antiseptic in preventing the transmission of disease through the water and also aid in keeping down intestinal parasites."

BACKACHE, LUMBAGO AND RHEUMATIC TROUBLES.

Dear Mr. Editor—I wish to state that I suffered greatly from backache, lumbago and rheumatic troubles. I used "Anuric," the latest discovery of Doctor Pierce for backache and kidney troubles, and I can cheerfully recommend the "Anuric Tablets" to anyone suffering from any of these maladies.

Yours truly,

J. F. GARBER.

NOTE: It is now asserted with confidence that these painful effects due to uric acid in the system are entirely eradicated. A new remedy, called "Anuric," has been discovered by Dr. Pierce, and is the cause of : drainage outward of the uric acid with which it comes in contact within the body. It will ward off backache, headache, and the darting pains and aches of articular or muscular rheumatism—of those diseases which are caused by too much uric acid, such as gout, asthma, sciatica, renal calculus. "Anuric" prolongs life because old people usually suffer from hardening and thickening of the walls of the arteries, due to the excess of uric acid in the blood and tissues.

Dr. Pierce, who is director and chief physician at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has been testing this wonderful medicine for the relief of over-worked and weakened kidneys. The relief obtained by sufferers has been so satisfactory that he determined to place "Anuric" with the principal druggists in town where people could get this ready-to-use medicine. "Anuric" is not harmful or poisonous, but aids nature in throwing off those poisons within the body which cause so much suffering, pain and misery. Scientists assert this remedy is 37 times more potent than lithia. Send 10 cents for large trial package.

"Anuric" is building up a reputation as good as Dr. Pierce's other well-known medicines which have been proved reliable during nearly fifty years, such as Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the ills of women, Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the liver regulator, and Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for red blood.

and excessive drying of the soil in midsummer.

While the best results are usually obtained by completely preparing the soil
and cultivating it for a few years after planting, farm owners should be aware of the possibility of starting hundreds of young walnuts in their wood lots
and elsewhere at the expense of only a little labor. This will be a good step in the process of securing useful and money making trees on parts of the farm which would perhaps otherwise be waste land, which is making no return at all to its owner.

A Handy Garden Marker.

A handy garden marker can be made of the scrap material found on nearly every farm, and it will prove a time
saver during the planting time season
and more efficient than using two stakes and a long cord for every row that must be marked. The marking pieces should be placed at distances apart depending on the width of the rows. Twelve or fifteen inches will usually be the best distance, which will make the marker either four feet or six feet in width.

An old pair of buggy thills will be satisfactory handles if they can be obtained, or strong, slender branches
from trees will do fully as well if they are straight and six or eight feet in length. If the soil has been finely pulverized in readiness for the garden
seed this marker will make straight lines by simply pulling it over the soil.
If the ground is not smooth and rather stony it will be necessary to weight
down the marker, and this can be done
by placing stones in a sack and tying
them to the frame.—Michigan Farmer.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

BY JOHN W. S. McCULLOUGH, M.D., D.P.H., CHIEF OFFICER OF THE PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

THE EYE.

THE HUMAN EYE is a wonderful instrument, but under the trying conditions of modern life it often fails to meet the demands put upon it, and serious trouble of all sorts results because we do not help out by getting glasses to supply Nature's defects.

Particularly at the time when children begin their school life, the new and difficult uses made of the eye often bring on eye strain and a host of resultant disorders.

The signs of beginning eye strain may vary in different cases.
At first only a slight fatigue may be noticed after reading or sewing.
The eyes may water easily or the eyeball may become bloodshot or the eyelids red. Some persons whose eyes are overtaxed show it by nervousness and others by drowsiness after the eyes have been used. Headaches of all sorts and even attacks of vertigo may be merely the symptoms of eye trouble.

The eye has a remarkable power, called the power of accommodation. When you look from a distant object to one nearby you notice that it takes a few seconds to focus the eye so that you can see it clearly.
Little muscles are contracting and changing the shape of the eye to adjust
it to the different distances somewhat as you change the focus of a camera according to the nearness of the object to be photographed. If the eye is abnormal in any respect these muscles have to work too hard, and, even though we may by this unconscious effort be able to see clearly, yet the strain is present. In such case we are seeing by a constant effort, while if glasses were provided to correct the defect of vision they would do this work and save us the strain.

A careful and thorough examination of the eyes should be made by a competent person. Many a miserable hour would be saved if this were done in time.

Because of defective eyesight a child may be dull, fretful, and backward in school, without anyone guessing the reason. An examination of the eyes reveals serious defects; these are corrected by proper glasses, and the effect is most marked. The child appears happier, makes good progress in his studies, and takes his rightful place in the school community.

Glasses or no glasses, there are some things that cannot be done with the eyes except at grave peril. Too little light strains the eyes, and so does too much. A direct glare right in the face is quite as bad as a room that is too dim to see properly. For reading, sewing, or other work which requires close and accurate vision the light should be clear and steady and should come from above and behind.

Earache is a common and distressing trouble in young children. It often occurs in connection with winter colds and in the course of measles and scarlet fever; it is due to an infection of the middle ear, the EARACHE poisonous germs being carried from the throat up the little passage called the Eustachian tube to the middle portion of the ear just inside the ear-drum. In other cases it occurs in children who have adenoids and large tonsils. In cases of earache which are severe and which may easily be neglected because the mother may not know the danger, the ear-drum may burst from the pressure of muco-pus inside it and the child is left with a running ear. This is often difficult to cure. In other cases the infection may spread to the cells or honeycomb of bone in the mastoid bone behind the ear and necessitate an operation. These bad results may frequently be prevented by a timely puncture of the drum, which at once gives relief and soon clears up the case. In an earache of any severity or where the pain lasts over a day or so, always call in a competent physician or an ear specialist, and give your child the best chance possible. In mild cases relief may be given by putting a few drops of warm olive oil in the ear and a hot water bottle outside.

The Red Cross Society

The Society is pleased to acknowledge, with thanks, the generous donation of $25.00 from the Grand Trunk Employees' Patriotic Association, districts 5, 6 and 7, Belleville, Ontario.

The following letter has been received by Miss Jessie Cleall from a Prisoner-of-war:

Dear Miss Cleall:

Just a line to say that I received your two parcels through the Canadian Red Cross, a few days ago, and many thanks. Everything was in excellent condition, even though the boxes had a long distance to come. When I tell you that I had not received a parcel for three long months, you will know how I appreciated yours.

Napanee seems a familiar place to me, although I have never been there, but three of my friends from Fernie, B.C., come from your town. My home is in Cornwall Ontario, not far from Napanee.

I cannot say very much to you about our affairs, or this letter might not reach you.

Thanking you again for the parcels, I remain,

Sincerely,

Germany.

The Society hopes to be able to cheer the hearts of many more Prisoners-of-war in Germany, through the kindness of the Misses VanLuven, whose recital takes place on Friday evening, September 15th, the entire proceeds of which will be devoted to this cause.

The annual meeting of the Napanee Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society will be held in the town hall, on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 23rd, at three o'clock. Reports of the year's work will be given, and plans for the future discussed. The officers for the ensuing year will also be elected, so a good attendance is requested.

It was most encouraging to see so many workers at the hall Saturday and much valuable work was accomplished. We all seem to realize the work that is to be done during the autumn months.

The fearful ordeal of last winter in the trenches, and at sea, was greatly lightened for our men by the kind help of women at home. This year we have a larger army than ever to provide for, and it is not likely that the coming winter will be any less severe or

A Mudcat Fin Causes Man's Death.

While William B. Tyron was cleaning a mudcat at his home in Tamworth last week he happened to catch the fish by the head and one of the pectoral fins pierced his finger. A sharp pain was felt, but he gave the matter little consideration until the latter part of the week when the finger began to swell and the hand became very sore. He consulted with a physician, and he was taken to the Kingston General Hospital on Saturday, Sept. 9. He received careful treatment, and every means was taken to prevent the poisoning, spreading. It did not avail anything, however, and on Sunday he died. The deceased was born in the township of Kennebec forty-eight years ago. He was a well known farmer in Tamworth and was married. The remains were sent to Tamworth.

DEATHS

THOMPSON—At North Fredericksburgh, on Monday, Sept. 11th, 1919, Teddy Chas. Thompson, aged 10 years.

PRESENTATION AT WILTON

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Storms, of Wilton, were the recipients of a presentation at their home in Wilton on Saturday, Sept. 9th. Mr. Storms has occupied the position of schoolmaster in Wilton the last three years. By his very genial disposition and his willingness to help in every good cause he has endeared himself to both old and young. Mr. Storms held the unique position of teaching in the same school that he received his early education.

A suitable address was prepared and read by Rev. W. J. Parsons, Presbyterian minister of Wilton. The presentation of an arm chair for Mr. Storms and a rocker for Mrs. Storms and also a table was made by Earle Perry. Harvey Mills in a very suitable speech voiced the feelings of good-will of the community towards Mr. Storms. Nicholas Asselstine in a very breezy manner also spoke of the good citizenship and moral worth of Mr. Storms. It was especially fitting that Mr. Asselstine should address the company gathered, as he could do so as Ms. Storms' previous schoolmaster, Mr. Asselstine having charge of the school when Mr. Storms was a pupil.

Refreshments were served by the ladies present, Mrs. B. Mills and Mrs. K. N. Storms providing the music.

Mr. Storms will leave realizing that he has the good wishes of the community.
